How faith and God is shown through your family's daily life.

My family's daily life consists of mostly Christian like activities and we try to keep our humane mindsets in check. Obviously sometimes we do somethings that aren't as "Christian-like" as we are supposed to act but that's just the nature in which we live as sinners. We do back things and we do good things and that's the way we live as children of God.

As sinners and children of God, we obviously do bad things and we disobey God commands all day and everyday. For example, Sometimes I disobey my mom even though I know it's wrong to disobey her. Which is not going against the ten commandments. I've lied, quilt tripped, and more things that I shouldn't have done. But I'm not the only one that lies and does bad things. Parents and adults make the same mistake as every other child or person does because they are a child of God. For example, people with power also lie and deceit to get what they initially want. So do my parents. They've lied to me before and have done many bad things in the eyes of the LORD.

As sinners and children of God, regarding the last paragraph, we also obey and keep our promises and entrust our faith into the LORD. Even though we are not perfect and still do bad things, we try to keep and obey the ten commandments and live off by those rules. Lately over the years that I have been alive, I've witnessed people coming together to form a unity and to be one's neighbor, "love a neighbor like you would love yourself". In the years, I have witnessed communities fall, and communities climb their way to the top. For example, when the death of George floyd took place it caused massive controversy due to the segregation and racism that was still taking place then. Another example is when the old elder asain folks being attacked due to coronavirus. But because of all these bad deeds and bad scenarios happening. It brought awareness to the situation and it fixed a lot of things that were meant to be fixed a long time ago.

Throughout the example it shows that there is a good side and evil side to all of humanity. We just need to find and harness it and make sure it's more good than bad. In my daily life I am usually somewhat of a christian. But I don't think I fully am because I'm not committed to being a full committed christian just yet. The one in our family that shows full commitment into being a christan is most likely my mother. My mother is a devoted christian by just the way she thinks. My mom thinks as though she is one of Jesus's disciples which I look up to very much in my opinion. My mom is what I want to be when I feel like it is the right time to be a devoted christian.

From here on out I want to set a few new rules which can probably set a good path for me as a christian. I want to start putting school in front of any other priority except my personal social reputation with people. And in everything that I do, I want to do it in the name of the LORD. When I do it, I do my best. I want to set gaming aside and really learn new skills or get a new habit. Learning new things will freshen my mind and either way learning a new skill is a good thing in general.

My dad on the other hand, I question his belief in the LORD. he doesn't really go to church and he doesn't really do anything that relates to being a Christian. My mom and I always encourage him to come to church once or to maybe do something with the family. But after he comes from work we usually just showers and watch tv. I understand why he does things though. He does this because he is really really tired from working 12 hours a day. Honestly if i was him i would be even more tired. My mom has been trying to get my dad to stop drinking since they got together because she says it causes trouble and it's not good for the family for my dad to drink and get drunk a lot. He has tried many times over and over again but as a result nothing really has changed. My mom has also tried to make my dad more religious and to actually have him at church sometimes. In the end it is always the same result, nothing has changed. I wanna start praying for my dad for God to give him strength to quit his drinking addiction and smoking addiction. And I wanna pray for him to start going to church more and to turn his life and dedicate it to Christ.
